The Archaeology of Tribal Social Formations: Selections from American Antiquity and Latin American Antiquity

COMPILED BY MICHELLE HEGMON

This collection brings together articles on a diversity of topics, ranging from settlement and leadership strategies to agricultural production and mobility, unified by their focus on the archaeology of tribal societies. Together, the articles consider the origins and consequences of a settled way of life, and the means archaeologists use to understand these issues, drawing from cases in North America and across the globe.

Voices in American Archaeology

EDITED BY WENDY ASHMORE,
DOROTHY LIPPERT, AND
BARBARA J. MILLS

Archaeological ideas and practices have experienced transformative change since the SAA's 50th Anniversary. Authors in this volume consider critically some of today's most noteworthy issues. Their voices—like their views—are as diverse as the discipline. Nonetheless, they repeatedly recognize deep articulation between archaeology and social, economic, and political milieus, from local to global scales. And they share conviction that much is to be done in the years ahead. This volume aims to rouse more voices to join the lively ongoing conversation.

342 pp. 2010. ISBN 978-0-932839-39-8.
Regular Price: ~~$27.75~~ $24.95

Cultural Transmission and Archaeology

EDITED BY MICHAEL J. O'BRIEN

This volume grew out of the first Society for American Archaeology's President's Invited Forum on Important Topics in American Archaeology. The various issues addressed in the chapters point out the complex nature of cultural transmission. Readers will find a diversity of opinion over how best to examine cultural transmission in the archaeological record and issues and concepts to keep in mind.

Ethics in Action

CHIP COLWELL-CHANTHAPHONH,
JULIE HOLLOWELL, AND
DRU MCGILL

Based on the Society for American Archaeology's Annual Ethics Bowl, this book is centered on a series of hypothetical case studies that challenge the reader to think through the complexities of archaeological ethics. The volume will benefit undergraduate and graduate students who can either use these cases as a classroom activity or as preparation for the Ethics Bowl, as well as those who are seeking to better understand the ethical predicaments that face the discipline.

Archaeologists and Local Communities: Partners in Exploring the Past

EDITED BY LINDA DERRY AND MAUREEN MALLOY

In this timely volume, the contributors provide case studies that range geographically from the Bering Sea to the suburbs of Washington, D.C. The book shows that by involving communities in archaeological projects, archaeologists build public support for archaeological sites and, in so doing, enrich the quality of the archaeological research itself. This text is an invaluable handbook for practicing archaeologists and students interested in establishing local community partnerships.

Ethics in American Archaeology, 2nd revised edition

EDITED BY MARK J. LYNOTT AND ALISON WYLIE

This groundbreaking series of papers explores the myriad issues facing archaeologists as archaeological sites become more well known and the preservation of artifacts continues to command public interest. The Second Revised Edition expands the discussion that led to the development of the Principles of Archaeological Ethics.

Our Collective Responsibility: The Ethics and Practice of Archaeological Collections Stewardship

EDITED BY S. TERRY CHILDS

Archaeological curation is in a state of crisis. Existing collections have inadequate space, resources, and professional staff; meanwhile, new collections continue to grow at an alarming rate. Making matters worse, many existing collections are in deplorable condition. "The book presents rock-solid, usable articles that offer suggestions about how archaeology can protect the things we collect. Using these papers we should be able to put our collective houses in order"—Joe Watkins, review in Journal of Anthropological Research
